Tver State university is located in the town of Tver. It is situated between two capitals of Russia: Moscow and St. Petersburg, approximately 160 km from Moscow and 485 km from St. Petersburg. Tver is the nearest regional town from Moscow, that takes only 1 hour and 35 minutes by local train.

So citizens of Tver joke that they have two great suburbs- Moscow and St. Petersburg. The population of Tver is about 420000.

ADVANTAGEOUS LOCATION OF TVER

Tver stands on the banks of the great Russian river Volga.

The source of the Volga is located in Tver Region.

History of TSU

The history of Tver State University goes back to December 1, 1870, when a private educational institution, training teachers for primary schools, was opened.

It was reformed in 1917 to become Tver Teachers' Institute, after which, it became Kalinin Pedagogical Institute.

On September 1, 1971, it was reorganized into Kalinin State University.

In 1990 Kalinin State University was renamed to Tver State University.

Pavel P. Maksimovich (1817—1892) — a founder of the private school in Tver.
